THE HAMILTON REVIVAL.

[St. Louis Republic.] Speaker Henderson's declaration in a public speech that "the doctrines of Hamilton must be the text-word of the hour" leads to an inquiry as to what are the doctrines of Hamilton.

Senator Henry Cabot Lodge, Republican, of Massachusetts, in his "Life of Hamilton" states them as follows:

"The Republic of Hamilton was to be established by the withdrawal from a Democratic Republic, and the peace of the separate States was to be effectually crippled. The first object to be attained was to control the purse of the President and Senators, who were to hold office during good behavior, to a class of the community qualified to vote by the payment of a small annual real property. The second was to be secured by giving to the President of the United States the command of the Governor of the various States who were to have a veto on all State legislation. These provisions, as may be seen, were calculated to give a despotic character of the Government, and although purely Republican, came much more from the desire to exclude any other by their recognition of classes of the political rights of property, while, for the treatment of the States, a highly centralized patriarchal government was to supersede entirely the confederate form."

If such doctrines are to be the "text-word of the hour" the American nation will preach a stern gospel to the South which will force upon it the doctrines of Hamilton where the founders of the greatest Republic on earth put them—deep down in the grave.

THE SOUTH'S FAULT, OF COURSE.

The South-haters of the North are not perhaps very many nowadays, but they are insatiable and insatiable. The Philadelphia Press blames the South now for the New York and Ohio race prejudice devilmint. It says:

To Ohio belongs the disgrace of trying to copy more closely than any other Northern State the lawless methods employed by the Southern States to punish the crime of rape.

But while Ohio may have had more such laws than any other State for many years than other Northern States there is every evidence that the same spirit is growing elsewhere as well as in Ohio. In New York, for instance, it is shown how easy it is to collect a mob which, for a short time can take possession of a large city in a manner that would be surprising. The evident growth of this spirit may well alarm thinking people. It has been fostered by the leniency with which the South has treated the men who have been treated. The masses have seen ballot boxes stuffed, elections stolen, Legislatures and Governors sent by Legis. and exec. commissions with impunity, and they have argued that if these things could be done without punishment, why, surely, they could do the same and break the law with safety? They have concluded that they could do it and the result is the race riots and massacres that have disgraced many States.

So long as the Southern opinion controls the South, Northern opinion cannot do much little. But events in Ohio prove that the lawless spirit of the South is permeating the North and that unless the South is checked the section will become as notorious for riots and lynchings as the South.

Of course this is all rot about the New York and Ohio mobs being emboldened by remembering "the South has been treated."

These mobs didn't remember anything. They simply got mad and lost their reason like all mobs do everywhere. But, supposing it were otherwise, people who sit under such whole-some teachings as those of the Press ought not to be led into temptation and astray by the Southern heathen, ought they?

The barbecue and picnic at Stubbs Park, Wednesday, for the benefit of the Catholic Church at Hickman, was an occasion of great social and order in all arrangements and appointments, and very well attended was not a source of real revenue as was deserved.

THE NEW ELECTION LAW

About Which Democratic Sentiment is Crystallizing

A Frankfort special to the Cincinnati Enquirer says: The Democratic legislators have been quietly discussing the main features to be incorporated in a new election law, and it is announced that a bill has been practically agreed upon. The features of the proposed measure are as follows:

State Election Commission of three members, one to be selected by the governor, one by the Legislature, and one by the same authority of the Republican party, and the third to be elected by the Legislature. The latter will be chosen to have no voice except where the other two disagree. County boards to contain three members, one selected by Democrats, one by Republicans, and the third by the County Judge, the latter Commissioner to have no vote except in case of a tie.

Universal registration in city, town, village and country precincts, do away with party devices on ballot boxes, provide for publication of all the results to be reasonable time after each election. The election officers are to be appointed from the two principal parties, the party authorities furnishing the names of persons who will be appointed, and must be divided equally.

That is, each party will have one judge and one recorder, and the other two will be with general approval, and it is more than likely it will be enacted into a law as soon as possible. It is an absolute reversion to the present law, and cannot be unfair to either party.

No Prisons for WOMEN.

Austria is the one country in the world which puts its women in prison. Instead of being a woman in jail so many months in jail she is sent, no matter how terrible is her record, to one or other of the convents devoted for the purpose, and she remains in the time for which she is sentenced. The convent is not a mere prison in disguise, for its courtyard gates open all day long, and one can enter going in a nun who acts as portress, just as in other convents.—[Washington Times.]

A DISGRACE TO CIVILIZATION.

Allied Soldiers Guilty of Fearful Atrocities in China.

The atrocities committed by the allied soldiers in China, between Tientsin and Pekin, could not be believed except that the reports are verified by some of our own American officers, but, being true, they are a deep-disgrace to civilization.

Hobbery, ravishing and murder are continuous. Roaming parties of soldiers indulge in unrestricted outrages. With the exception of events in the section traversed by the armies has been looted. The Russians are the worst offenders, with the French also contributing largely in proportion to their numbers. The Japanese, British and Americans are under better control. The conduct of the Cossacks has been especially atrocious.

The scene all along Pet Ho Valley was one of destruction and ruin, and everywhere the non-combatant Chinese were hurling in silent fear and terror, but not even abject submission was any protection.

OPENED.

Kentucky's Political Campaign

By pre-arrangement and compact consent the political campaign in Kentucky, was opened on Monday, by both the great political parties, and from now on the fight may be said to be fairly on, and the indications are that every foot of ground will be stubbornly contested. Governor Beckman and ex-Governor McCready made speeches at Henderson, and an immense and enthusiastic crowd is expected.

Mr. Yerkes, the Republican nominee for Governor, opened his campaign at Bowling Green, and is also reported to have been greeted by a large and enthusiastic audience.

The Democratic programme was to have a Democratic opening campaign, and in each county seat on the 3d, and from newspaper reports this was generally followed out but in some counties the speakers failed to fill appointments.

The Republicans have a number of spell binders on the books.

From now on if you don't want to hear politics on the "raging stump," stay in doors or hide.

ALTGELD'S WARNING.

Former Governor John P. Altgeld, of Illinois, warns the Democratic National Committee to organize vigilance committees to watch the count of ballots next November. He declares Republicans are depending on fraud and crime at the polls to carry the election, and that they have raised $50,000,000 from trusts. Democratic managers do not, however, take kindly to the scheme. But they say they will keep better watch this year than they did in 1896.

Mr. Altgeld says: "In 1888 Cleveland carried Kentucky by about 43,000 majority. In 1896 Mr. Bryan got about 40,000 more votes than had been cast for Cleveland, so he evidently carried the State. In 1896 he had raised $50,000,000 in votes. Yet it was counted for Mr. McKinley. This was accomplished by means of false returns and wholesale frauds committed in Louisville and in the mountain districts, where were Republicans.

"Careful examination of the returns from Ohio in 1896 showed there were from 30,000 to 70,000 fraudulent votes counted. In Indiana there were between 30,000 and 40,000 more votes counted than had been cast. In 1896, in this every method of fraud was practiced that was known to man.

"Chicago carefully examined the vote of 1896 and 1898 in the neighborhood of prior year shows in the neighborhood of 72,000 more votes returned than were honestly cast at that election, and 20,000 entries were made in the 1898 ballot box. In 1896, 160,000 fraudulent votes were returned.

"We feel these crimes can be prevented. We feel that every state will have a vigilance committee in every precinct of the country, make careful lists of all legal voters, and then take post offices and other places where counts are in progress, and see that there is no false count made, and that votes cast for the Republicans are not counted for the Republicans candidates, then we will sweep the country from end to the other. Republicans will not be able to do this, but the Democrats will."—[Chicago Tribune.]

—57,000 in Arkansas.

The Democrats win in Arkansas, electing their ticket by an estimated majority of 57,000. There was a small vote.

HICKMAN, KY.,

FRIDAY, : : : SEPT. 7, 1900.

GOV. BECKHAM in his message to the General Assembly advises the passage of an election law that will be suitable to all the people. This, we believe is the desire of the majority of the voters of the state.

HON. ARTHUR SEWELL, Vice-Presidential candidate with Bryan in 1896, was stricken suddenly with appendicitis Monday is lying at the point of death. The physicians say that there is absolutely no hope for his recovery. He has since died.

HON. WM. C. P. BRECKINRIDGE has been chosen as one of the attorneys in proceedings which may be instituted for the purpose of bringing before the United States Supreme Court the question of legality of the alleged disfranchisement of negroes in the South.

The Republican headquarters at Chicago has issued a bulletin stating that Brig. Gen. Wheeler will take the stamp for McKinley directly after his retirement from the army Sept. 13. This Gen. Wheeler denies, and says his political record is a sufficient index of where he stands now.

ST. LOUIS has turned down Boston and taken fourth place among the big towns of the country. The population cities rates as follows: In point of population according to the new census New York, 5,457,300; Chicago, 1,698,575; Philadelphia, 1,393,697; St. Louis, 575,382; Boston, 550,892.

Taz population of Greater New York, as indicated by the count just completed at the Census office, is 3,439,222. This includes the population of the boroughs of Manhattan and Bronx, and those of Brooklyn, Richmond and Queens. A close estimate of the increase since 1890 shows it to be 37.9 per cent.

TENNESSE Republicans are split in two factions, and have two State tickets and two sets of National electors. There is a marked apathy in the political situation in Tennessee, but it is conceded that Bryan and Stephens and the entire State Democratic ticket will carry the State by substantial majorities.

HON. CHAS. A. TOWNE spoke at Duluth, Minn., to the largest audience ever seen in that city at a political speaking. A large portion of his address was a reply to Gov. Roosevelt's St. Paul speech. Mr. Towne characterized New York's governor as "a pedantic and incorrigible eccentric" and "an intellectual Comanche."

JOHN G. WOOLEY, the Prohibition candidate for President, has started on a ten thousand mile campaign tour. He left Chicago last Saturday. The party is traveling in what is known as the "Prohibition" train. He will be in Kentucky on the 4th and 6th of October along the lines of the Louisville & Nashville Railroad.

HON. WILLIAM L. WILSON, President of Washington and Lee University, believes that up to the present there is all to command and nothing to criticize in the management of the Chinese question. With peace restored he believes the open door policy will open great opportunities for a growing and profitable commerce in the East.

Mrs. DR. C. W. WHIGHT, a woman physician, at Gilman, Ill., was the cause of a riot at that place last week, in which she and five others were killed. She had been conducting a lying-in hospital and the death of a sixteen-year-old girl whom she had in charge caused the riot in which hundred participated. She was arrested and sent to hospital and attempted to arrest the woman she and her employees resisted and opened fire upon the mob killing three of them. The hospital was burning and the fatally wounded woman was taken to Paxton for safe keeping. Effort was made to lynch her. She was formerly an actress.

THE FLAG AT PEKIN.

The Republicans say we cannot haul down the flag where it has once been hoisted. If that is true, how are you going to get the flag away from Pekin? Our soldiers are there and control the stars and stripes with them, and if they do not want to let go of the flag, there is no way to do it. The flag does over a land the cannot be given back, true, you cannot get your soldiers away from Pekin, and if you follow the doctrine that we follow in Manila, you have got to take the whole of China, because we took all the islands of the Philippines, and if that doctrine is true we have got to take all 400,000 square miles of China, and a thousand times better to haul down the flag in the Philippine Islands and take the flag of the Philippine Republic than to haul down the flag from the flag of the Republic to the flag of an Empire—W. J. Bryan.

Ledford &amp; Randle's Grocery Store Robbed.

On Monday night the grocery house of Ledford &amp; Randle was entered by burglars and several hundred dollars in goods stolen, consisting of 4 guns, 17 boxes of knives, bacon, tobacco and many other articles. The robbery is believed to be missing amounts between $200 and $300. The house was entered through a window protected by iron bars, a glass being bent to give space for a boy or a small man to enter. The indications are that several were engaged in the robbery, that they were in skiffs, and that there was more than one skiff or that they made more than one trip from the fact that all the stolen goods could not have been carried at load.

The robbers fled down the river, suspecting that the robbers were of the craft of river pirates, but they overhauled every thing and made most thorough search without discovering the guilty parties or any clues to them.

R. W. BUCK.

Ex Senator John B. Henderson, formerly of Missouri, now of Washington D. C., is one of the old Lincoln Republicans. He wrote in a letter to the Liberator, the following:

—The United States is no longer a Republic. Two wars—one against the Philippines, the other against China—are being waged by the President with almost any conceivable sanguinity.

The Emperor claims a greater power than that which is exercised, almost without protest, by an American President. An American crowd would be shocked to learn that the command of the German Emperor, who openly protests against the Chinese, is the equal of General MacArthur.

On the successful entry of the allies into Pekin will begin the struggle of ravaged beasts over the prey. And the people to whom the beasts will be given in November next, we shall be one of the beasts. Bryan has many things to say about the Chinese, but I remain silent.

—The above comes as a warning note from one who was a leader of the Republican party.

A Troy Man's Luck.

More than two years ago Mr. Tanner, living near Troy, was robbed of over $1,000. Sebe Pastures were suspected because of the proximity of the gun to the place on the day it occurred. However, no evidence ever occurred against him until recently, so following the lead of the police, he reported to the Sheriff, in which the man of whom he was accused had been seen to light a sealed bottle which, upon being opened, yielded $180, and now Mr. Tanner is searching the premises for the remainder.

BRYAN TO POPULISTS

Democratic Candidate Receives No-tification at Topeka.

Addressess Immense Gathering on the Various Issues Old and New—Strong Arrangement of Republican Policies.

From 20,000 to 30,000 persons his end to William J. Bryan at Topeka, Kan., Thursday, August 23, on the occasion of his notification by the populists of Kansas of their nomination of him for the presidency, in responding to which he said:

"Mr. Chairman and Members of the National Committee: In view of the presidential nomination which you tender on behalf of the populist party, I desire to thank you for your kind words to the educational work done by your party.

"The populist party as an organization has sprung from the same republican organizations from which they sprang, have done much to impress the people to a sense of the rightness of their principles.

"Believing, as I do, that truth grows, not only in the open air, but also in the heat of battle, I have confidence that the discussion will aid in reaching that true solution of problems toward which all honest men desire to go. I desire also to express my deepest thanks to Mr. Chairman, the populist convention, which you, your committee, and your speakers have given me in the hope of being able to make them better informed, for in so doing we have been enabled to remove many difficulties.

"While I am grateful for the confidence which the populists have expressed in me, I am very anxious to reward a personal and strong arrangement of their extraordinary manifestations of good will.

"I am fully aware that there are many who believe in the same great fundamental principles who are stronger than I am.

"I desire to assure them that, despite the difference in our political parties, our cooperation between the reform forces is due to the fact that, despite the fact that the populists have taken the side of the people in their contest against greed, and that they have shown a decided adherence to the principles to the question immediately before us."

The Currency Question.

"In 1856 the money question was of paramount importance to the ability of the country to meet its debts, and the immediate restoration of silver by the independent action of this country has existed since 1852. They were defeated, but that did not end the struggle. It was not until 1863 that they were defeated in 1888, but that did not put an end to tariff reform. The republicans were defeated in 1888, but that did not put an end to the protective tariff. Defeat at the polls does not necessarily decide a great question. It may be that the question is still open.

"The money question is the most important question. If an increase in the value of money would be more beneficial to the people, it would be more beneficial to the people. It is the most responsible argument put forward in favor of bimetallism, only confirming the conviction of those who opposed it that more money would make better times.

"The money question, however, while claiming credit for the increase in circulation, makes no permanent provision for an increase in the amount of money. It does not make the necessary for more real money, while it permits nations to expand their paper money to pay money.

"If the populists feel justified in opposing the republican party, it is to that they want to conceal its gold standard tendencies under the mask of a greenback. The greenback position should be more pronounced in proportion as the republican party more openly advocates the greenback.

"In 1856 the populists charged the republican party with intending to retire the greenbacks. This charge, denied at the time, was later substantiated by a special bill, which converts greenbacks, when once redeemed, into gold certificates, and extends the same to the states.

If a popular opposed the republican party when its intent to greenback was only a secret, that opinion would be more evident now since no one can longer doubt the purpose of the republican party to submit to the greenback.

"It is true that the populists believe in an irredeemable paper money, but the republicans believe in a greenback redeemable in coin; but the vital question at this time, so far as the greenback is concerned, is whether government or banks shall issue it. There will be time enough to discuss the question when the greenback is saved from the annihilation of the republicans.

The republican party is now committed to a currency system which necessitates a perpetual debt, while the greenback is a currency system in agreement with the democrats, who believe in paying off the national debt as rapidly as possible.

The Tariff.

"If "Believe in the Tariff" is a populist in acting with the democratic party in 1856, what excuse can we find for allying ourselves with the republicans? The exigencies of war have not been sufficient to bring this party to the support of the money principle.

"Populists believe in arbitration now as much as they did in 1856. They believe in arbitration by judgment and the blacklist if they were then, and upon that basis they are now. They are willing to cooperate with the democratic party to submit to the greenback.

"Populists believe in the principles of direct legislation. If any direct legislation is to be applied, the principle should be applied by experiment.

"Populists believe in arbitration, arbitration and other oriental labor should be excluded from the United States.

"Populists desire to enlarge the scope of the interstate commerce act, and to extend it to cover both persons and places from discrimination, and the public at large from excessive taxation.

"The populists approve the demand set forth in the resolution of the national bank board, a cable office at its head. Such an official would keep the administration in touch with the financial portion of the population, and go far toward securing such remedial legislation as the nation needs.

The Trusts.

"In 1856 the populists united with the democrats in opposing trusts, although the question at that time appeared like a cloud scarcely larger than a man's hand. To-day the question is a dark cloud in the political sky. The farmer does not participate in the profits of any trust, and the world is to blame for that. He is the chief culprit upon the season for his income. When he sells his crop, he is compelled to sell it at a price which will blow it down, or haul destroy it, or incents devour it, and the price of the crop is as low as it can possibly go.

"A monopoly can suspend production and fix the price of raw material as well as the price of the finished product. The power to protect himself when he sells is the power to control the market.

"The farmer, however, is compelled to furnish an army sufficient to hold the market in his own interest, and to extingush the trusts so long as it draws its campaign contribution from their over-flowing pockets.

The "Prosperity" Argument.

"The prosperity argument which the republicans bring forward to answer all complaints against the administration will not deceive the farmer. He knows that two factors enter into his income: First, the amount which he receives for the same. He does not receive more than he gives.

"He knows that the republican party favors another such a beautiful harvest, and he knows that the republican party has increased agricultural prices. Since he sells his surplus in a foreign tariff, and since he produces merchandise and not money, he does not receive more than he gives.

"He knows that the much vaunted prosperity, of which he has never had his fill, is the result of the unnatural and unnatural stimulation which it has received during the last three years.

"The figures in the annual reports show a larger number of failures than the corresponding number of successes.

"Believing, as I do, that truth grows, not only in the open air, but also in the heat of battle, I have confidence that the discussion will aid in reaching that true solution of problems toward which all honest men desire to go. I desire also to express my deepest thanks to Mr. Chairman, the populist convention, which you, your committee, and your speakers have given me in the hope of being able to make them better informed, for in so doing we have been enabled to remove many difficulties.

"The populists believe in the same great fundamental principles who are stronger than I am.

"I desire to assure them that, despite the difference in our political parties, our cooperation between the reform forces is due to the fact that, despite the fact that the populists have taken the side of the people in their contest against greed, and that they have shown a decided adherence to the principles to the question immediately before us."

New England.

"It is sometimes urged by certain politicians that the wealth of the republicans would so aggravate economic conditions to make reform easier. Not so. The republicans are not so much interested in the hope of being able to make them better afterward, for in so doing we have been enabled to remove many difficulties.

"While I am grateful for the confidence which the populists have expressed in me, I am very anxious to reward a personal and strong arrangement of their extraordinary manifestations of good will.

"Those who labor to improve the condition of the poor among the fellow-men are apt to become impatient; but they must remember that it takes time to work out great reforms.

A PEERLESS ORATOR.

Bryan's Masterly Exposition of American Government Ideas in His Speeches.

No man living can say such stirring things in words so free from passion as William Jennings Bryan. He is equally a master of rhetoric and of logic. He is no modest and unassuming as he is inspiring and convincing. If he has an equal among publicists of the day, it is easily lost among experts—primes, partisans. He will take a place in American history with Jefferson and Lincoln, and whether he takes his seat in the presidential chair or not, he now comes absolutely certain that he will be one of the greatest interpreters of true democracy and Americanism is assured. He grows in stature with the days, and every speech he makes gives new proof of his orator's candor and intellectual thoughts and power.

His speech at Indianapolis was a masterly exposition of American governmental ideas, and his acceptance of the nomination at Toledo, Ohio, was less inspiring, but no less impressive. Truly it may be said that "only himself can be his parallel." In expounding the great fundamental truths on which our national existence is based in words as compact as they are comprehensive.

In accepting its popular nomination Bryan paid the popular party in his opening sentences, a high and just compliment. His national work has done in arousing the people to a study of economic and industrial questions, for, as he says, "truth grows not in seclusion but in the open field, and it thrives best in the sun-shine of full and free debate." It is this free and full discussion that McKinley—the bastard republican of the day—most create. The men who are most to be blamed for the bad strip that Cecil Rhodes called the union jack in Africa, a "commercial asset," want no debate. With no more feeling or sentiment than Wordsworth's peasants to whom the pretty Bower on the mountain side, "a yellow primrose was not nothing more, the flag of Washington, of Jackson, of Lincoln and of Grant, has no glory or meaning in its folds to those greedy and vulgar pointers of folly and baseness." "The world is in a fever," in parts like Cuba, the Philippines and at home, unless they make it a "commercial asset," is a thing to be feared and especially because the glowing story of their dignified and loyal ways into its folds.

McKinley touched on several things, however, at Toledo which he passed over at Indianapolis. In referring to the currency question the republican party he says "denies the necessity for more real money, while it permits no time to come to the rescue of paper promises to pay money." It is now committed to a currency system which necessitates a perceptible curb, while the populist finds himself in agreement with the members who believe in paying off the national debt as rapidly as possible. In sentences few but clear he advocates an income tax, the principles of direct legislation, the right to sue for injunctions and other issues leaves nothing to be desired in the way of putting unanswerable arguments in a terse, pithy and original manner. Every true citizen will wish with him in his desire to see that "the oppression of every land will see in our flag the hope of their own deliverance and that, whenever they are bleeding upon the battlefield or gleaning beneath a tyrant's lade, will raise their eyes towards heaven and breath a fervent prayer for the safety of our republic."

Mr. Bryan's treatment of the "property" argument, of the war and its cost, the taxation of incomes and other issues leaves nothing to be desired in the way of putting unanswerable arguments in a terse, pithy and original manner. Every true citizen will wish with him in his desire to see that "the oppression of every land will see in our flag the hope of their own deliverance and that, whenever they are bleeding upon the battlefield or gleaning beneath a tyrant's lade, will raise their eyes towards heaven and breath a fervent prayer for the safety of our republic."

JOHN SMITH CHANGES PARTY

A Simple Story Which Illustrates the Oppressive Power of Trusts.

This is the simple story of how John Smith came to change his party. His father was a republican. His grandfather was a whig. John's hillbilly had also voted for his father. But from his early youth he had always evinced an interest in politics, but it was a quiet interest. He didn't go much on getting into arguments. He was always content to believe that his party was more right than the democrats, so he took a straight republican ticket every time.

John kept a small store in the suburbs of a large city. He sells groceries, oil, candles, stationery for the school children, and deals a little in meat, especially in the winter time, when it is easier to keep meat than in the summer.

John has noticed of late that his income amount practically to nothing, still he does a fair amount of business; he is steady and does not spend his money extravagantly, tries to buy pretty things for his store, although he never buys for himself. He keeps things neat and clean about his place.

A few months ago John got hold of a newspaper with some interesting articles regarding the growth and development of trusts. John was quiet, but nothing was quiet, he had nothing else to read, so he glanced over the article. Very soon he became interested and read them very carefully. As

IN THE JEWELRY LINE.

While there is every prospect that there will be a slight though not entire fall in the market, and one difference from last year will be as much in evidence as ever, it is apparent that there is a decidedly strong rival in the field, and that is ebony, both the genuine and its many imitations. Color goes with ebony, but its lack of popularity, although neither of the foregoing can usurp the position so long held by silver in the popular estimation.

In spite of the enormous amount of cheap jewelry purchased by the market, there has been a result of the market has been favorable, although neither of the foregoing can usurp the position so long held by silver in the popular estimation.

To a certain extent the necklace has been revived during the past year or so, but owing to the high favor in which stock and ribbon colors are held, the demand for them, has been found difficult to create a demand for the old style necklace—the short, close-fitting variety, which is mainly used for evening wear. To obviate this difficulty, however, the jeweler has made longer necklaces, many instances being sufficient to encircle the neck several times and still be long enough to hang almost to the waist.

To all appearance the fob does not seem to have one half of its popularity with the masculine element, while it has ascended in favor materially with the women. Every conceivable material has been pressed into service, from the common leather to 14 karat gold, the materials intervening between the two in question being so many as to scarcely permit of enumeration. As in other lines, there has been an enormous variety of designs, some of them being of the most popular fobs of this kind consisting of an article composed entirely of reproductions of ancient coins.

Restaurant and Hotel.

The indulgent hotel passenger was about to speak, but the manager had him off examining in a tone of irritation:

"What's the use of having a cigar? I don't pay any attention to it. The drinking of beer has been stopped in the kitchen range ten minutes. The look as if it had been swept for a month, and windows when we go through tunnels, so that the smokers can know it."

"I'm mighty glad," said Farmer Brown, to his boy just home from school. "We've got a new fence while away, for a general rule." A boy at school don't learn a thing that's worth a row of pins. But now we've fence enough to build to last 'till school begins."

Tears Legitimate Arguments Before a Jury.

The supreme court of Tennessee has made a somewhat novel and interesting decision. It holds that a lawyer has right to shed tears to influence the verdict of a jury, and, in fact, says that if he can bring tears to his eyes at will he is derelict if he neglects to do so. The case in point was one to which the defendant had given the ground that the weeping of the attorney was plain evidence of his guilt. The court found that the point had never been raised before and asserted that the manner of trial was not left to the judgment of attorneys. "Some," said the judge, "deal wholly in logic and argument without any embellishment. Others are more eloquent, and indulge flights of fancy and imagination. Others rely upon noise and gesticulation, earnestness of manner, and the like. Still others appeal to the passions, prejudices and sympathies of the jury. Others combine all these means." He held that the law did not require such a mode of trial, but that tears have always been considered legitimate arguments before a jury, and would appear to be one of natural human emotion, as it would be difficult to decide whether or not the emotion was natural if such a point could be raised. He says a trial judge should not interfere with the shedding of tears unless they are indulged in to such an excess as to impede, embarrass or delay the business before the court.

JUDGE TESTED THE MILK.

A number of dairymen received a few days ago at Odessa, Neb., on their claim of using dyes to keep their milk from souring, when arranged on Saturday, admitted using a preservative compound but declared it was harmless, and Judge Samuel Gordon believed them.

The prosecuting attorney asked Judge if he had any objection to the use of the milk as a test, and his honor answered: "Yes, bring in a quart of it."

The Judge, who is blind, adjourned the court until Monday, so as to see what effect if any, this milk has on the court. Monday a telephone message was sent to the dairy men saying that the Judge was ill and would not be on duty until the next day.

A detective was appointed to the bench, and a fine catch of the accused dairymen $25 and costs.

Chemists say that the preservative which is sold under drug store counter is principally potassium alum, a power in chemical.—Philadelphia Record.

A BIG FEE.

Dr. McFarland Files Claim for $10,000 for Attending Goebel.

Louisville, Ky., Sept. 1—Dr. J. N. McCormack of Bowling Green, who attended Wm. Goebel after he was wounded, has filed his claim against the estate of the dead governor. It is for the sum of $10,000. The enormous fee has however been approved by Arthur Goebel, who states that it was due to McCormack's efforts to save the life of the man who lived long enough to attain his great ambition to become Governor of Kentucky. Arthur Goebel is said to be under the care of Dr. Wm. G. Green, who is the attorney for the deceased.

This is undoubtedly the largest fee ever earned in Kentucky by a Kentucky doctor. Dr. McCormack attended his patient only from Tuesday till Saturday evening, and in conjunction with several other surgeons. Wm. Goebel, another doctor may claim a fee at least $10,000.

Judge Kingman for Bryan.

Samuel A. Kingman, of Topeka, Kan., for ten years chief justice of the supreme court of Kansas, a lifelong publication, has endorsed the stand announced by the Missouri ticket in its support of W. J. Bryan and the entire democratic ticket. He leaves the party, his younger son having been won over to conspicuous credit with great reluctance, but he believes the party has departed so far from its original teachings that he no longer considers it should remain with it.

Judge Kingman stands on the Kansas City platform regarding the issue growing out of the Philippines. He regards militarism as the greatest menace to the Union that has arisen since '61.

DEMOCRATS MAY CONTROL THE NEXT CONGRESS.

That the next Senate of the United States, coming in on the 4th of March, 1901, will be Democratic or controlled by the united opposition to the Republicans is a strong probability, according to the calculations and claims of the leaders of the leaders at Congressional Campaign Committee headquarters at Washington.

Secretary James Kerr, than whom there is no shrewder nor more careful political reckoner in the country, is positive in the assertion that if Bryan is elected both houses of Congress will be Democratic.

Chairman Richardson and Secretary Kerr are in close communication with every Congressional District in the country, from which they derive their information. They are familiar with the political situation in every State and their most conservative calculations give the Democrats, or the opposition to the Republicans, more than enough additional Senatorships as a result of the forthcoming November elections to capture the United States Senate.

A change of nine Senators will make the majority of eight, but there will be thirty-three newly re-elected Senators to take their seats next January, so that the Democrats will outnumber the Republicans count at almost an absolute certainty in a gain of seven, or eight.

If Bryan is elected, he will have six friends in the Senate, and the probability is strong that a quieting effect on the Senate will be produced.

It was found that a few people had been precipitated into the chamber under the stand, but none was seriously injured.

A RICH BOY.

"Hello!" laughed Mr. Bryan; turning a smiling face upon the scared people. "I am a rich boy, a Democratic boy. There are no bad banks in my town, now; stand still you will be all safe." It was a quieting effect. His self-sureness had a quieting effect on the Senate.

When the election was over it was found that a few people had been precipitated into the chamber under the stand, but none was seriously injured.

"For my legs?"

"Yes, what do you use them for?"

"I run and jump and play ball, and do everything."

"That's so," said the father, "you wouldn't take ten thousand dollars for them?"

"No sir."

"Nor your good health?"

"Your hearing and your sense of taste are worth five thousand dollars apiece, at the very lowest, don't you think?"

"Yes sir."

"Your eyes, now? How would you like to have twenty thousand dollars and the rest of your life?"

"I would not like it at all."

"Think a moment, Ben. Fifty thousand dollars is a lot of money. Are you very sure you would not sell them for that much?"

"Yes sir."

"Then they are worth that much at least. Let me see, legs ten thousand; arms, ten; voice, ten; hearing, five thousand; good health, ten eyes, fifteen thousand; taste, five thousand; smell, five thousand; memory, my boy, at the very lowest, ten thousand dollars eyes, of yours at all the best things about you, and come with your usual appetite for dinner, when you're now and then how rich you really are."

It was a lesson that Ben never forgot, and it taught him to be a good boy or a blind man but that he thinks how many things he has to be thankful for. And it has helped to make him contented—Selected.

Definition of the Word.

"What does the word honeymoon mean, papa?" asked the small boy. The old gentleman coughed once or twice and looked at his wife.

"I don't know what it means in slang, don't you?" he asked at length.

"It means money," answered the boy.

"Precisely. Well, 'moon' is a period of time, and 'honeys' is a kind of candy. You can figure it out for yourself."

"It's a month when you're alone."

"It's a month when you're alone."
